

Bartok limited edition: 25, 2007
concrete, steel, h x w x l = 45 x 76 x 76 cm

BARTOK

An unconventional view on the familiar

The concrete table BARTOK uncovers what we want to hide. The iron grid reinforcement of a building is always hidden and nobody values it. What keeps a building together - in its core - is nevertheless the visible concrete as well as the unseen iron grid. BARTOK intentionally shows off this iron thereby challenging our view on the material and changing our perception on what is beautiful.